DETAILED ACTION

Oath/Declaration

1. The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:

Non-initialed and/or non-dated alterations have been made to the oath or declaration. See 37 CFR 1.52(c).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 34-36, 42-53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Bondar et al. (7,332,207).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3612

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 37-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bondar et al. in view of Cowelchuk et al. (6,991,841) or alternatively in view of Nakai et al. (5,895,613).

Bondar et al. disclose a vacuum aperture in the skin not the substrate.

Cowelchuk et al. and Nakai et al. both teach the use of vacuum apertures as recited in the claims for a substrate. Cowelchuk et al. teach a substrate 12 having a channel; the substrate including a vacuum aperture 14 located in the channel. The outermost sides of the protrusions can be considered lateral edges of the skin. Therefore, the vacuum aperture extending through the substrate is located between a protrusion and a lateral edge. Furthermore, the protrusions are each located between the aperture and the lateral edge of the skin.

Alternatively, Nakai et al. teach a substrate 13 having a channel; the substrate including a vacuum aperture 14 located in the channel. The vacuum aperture extends through the substrate and is located between the protrusion 22 and a lateral edge of the skin. The outermost sides of the protrusions 22 can be considered lateral edges of the skin. Therefore, the vacuum aperture extending through the substrate is located between a protrusion on the right side of Figure 1 and a lateral edge on the left side. Furthermore, the protrusions are each located between the aperture and the lateral edge of the skin.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided the vacuum aperture of Bondar et al. in the substrate as taught by Cowelchuk et al. and Nakai et al. as an obvious expedient. Merely reversing the placement of the aperture from the skin to the substrate would require only a mere reversal of parts and would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
